This has been a long-held dream and it's finally happening. With 12 years of refining and developing the Ultimate Team, Ultimate Team has become the cornerstone of the FIFA franchise. In FIFA 18, we looked at what can be achieved in terms of 'player presence' - the feeling that your players are really there on the pitch. We also looked at how we can create a more realistic football experience. This year we are looking to take it a step further. We are using new motion capture technology that for the first time is capturing the entire football match and replaying it, in real time. The goal is to use this data in FIFA 22 to capture the physical and emotional dimension of football in a way that has never been possible before. We are going to look at what we can do with the data we collect during the match. From the players' movement, to tackling, to the runs between the lines and the timing of passes. Combining this data with the new 'resolved collisions' feature, we can recreate the feeling that your player is really in the action, not just on the sidelines and interacting with the action remotely. We're also bringing back goalkeeper deflections to FIFA 22. Deflections are easy to simulate but hard to recreate in real life. By combining the new goalkeeper AI and the new goalkeeper motion capture technology, FIFA 22 will deliver an authentic deflection feel. Our goal is to make the FIFA franchise the best football experience, period. by Andrew Orth How FIFA World Cup Moments were Made
