intracranial vessels. The best results were obtained with the 16-slice helical CT system. The measurements of the interventional procedures were all in accordance with the findings obtained with the angiography and the angioscopy. The CT images were free from artefacts in most of the interventions. The CT measurements showed a strong correlation with the angiography ( $r = 0.97-0.99$ ). The measurements of the distances were better with the 16-slice helical CT ca3bfb1094
